COURSE OVERVIEW

This course is intended for students interested in research on sports applications of quantitative methods (statistics, computer science, data science, etc.). In an informal seminar style, we will discuss a selection of the latest academic journal articles in sport analytics, as guided by student interest. Each week, one student will choose a paper and prepare a 20-minute oral presentation for the rest of the class, leaving space for discussion.

A goal of this course is to foster research collaborations and opportunities for students. We hope to spin off research projects from ideas discussed in class. In addition to reading papers, we will set aside time to brainstorm and share ideas. Presenters may substitute their own research instead of summarizing a paper.

The only enrollment offered is one credit hour per semester (repeatable for credit).

COURSE OBJECTIVES AND LEARNING OUTCOMES

After successfully completing this course, you will be able to:

- Recognize central themes in the recent academic literature of sport analytics.
- Evaluate statistical and computational methods used in sport analytics.
- Present a summary of an academic journal article to a small audience.
- Identify potential research problems in sport analytics.

HOW YOUR GRADE IS DETERMINED

Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory: A “satisfactory” grade requires completion of one 20-minute oral presentation.

RICE HONOR CODE

In this course, all students will be held to the standards of the Rice Honor Code, a code that you pledged to honor when you matriculated at this institution. If you are unfamiliar with the details of this code and how it is administered, you should consult the Honor System Handbook at <http://honor.rice.edu/honor-system-handbook/>. This handbook outlines the University's expectations for the integrity of your academic work, the procedures for resolving alleged violations of those expectations, and the rights and responsibilities of students and faculty members throughout the process.

AI Policy. You are allowed (and even encouraged) to use AI as a tool for developing R code (attribution in this case is not necessary). Please do not use AI to generate any part of your writeups.

DISABILITY RESOURCE CENTER

If you have a documented disability or other condition that may affect academic performance you should: 1) make sure this documentation is on file with the Disability Resource Center (Allen Center, Room 111 / adarice@rice.edu / x5841) to determine the accommodations you need; and 2) talk with me to discuss your accommodation needs.
